

2023-24 Community Calendar Survey Results

Thank you to those who participated in our 2023-24 academic calendar survey. The results, which are being heavily relied upon to create next year's calendar, are below. They can also be found on the Family Toolbox page of our website.

What was your assessment of this year's academic calendar? (See current calendar here)

57 responses

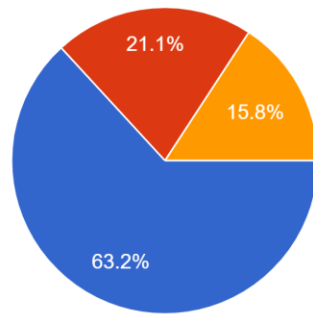

This year staff professional development days were generally scheduled on Mondays. What day of the week works best for your family for these state-required development days next school year?

57 responses

Often this year, staff professional development days were added to the end of a vacation (winter vacation, mid-winter vacation, spring vacation). W...pment days will occur separate from longer breaks.

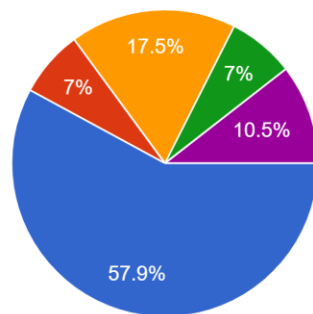

57 responses

- Continue to schedule vacations and professional development days together
- Discontinue scheduling vacations and professional development days together
- No opinion

This year's mid-winter break was five days long (including the weekend and a staff development day). In your opinion, next year's mid-winter break:

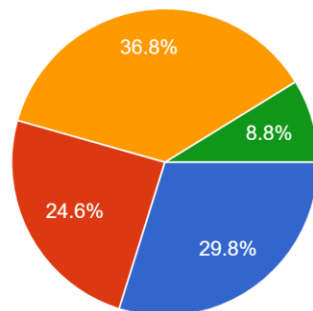

57 responses

- Should be the same as this year's
- Should be longer than this year's
- Should be shorter than this year's
- Should be eliminated
- No opinion

This year, Honey Creek convened for a half-day of school on Martin Luther King, Jr. Day in order to collectively celebrate the holiday and recognize ser... Which best describes your opinion of this change:

57 responses

- This was a good addition to the calendar and it should remain next year
- This was a good addition but more work needs to be done to make it more impactful
- This was a bad additional to the calendar and we should revert to the day off to celebrate the holiday
- No opinion